Hi Wangel,

I think it would be a good idea for us to get together and meet so we can work some of the details of the project out.

The development team members are:

James Gruss (me)

Thomas Dylewski

Andrew McCracken

Naif Alotaibi

The development team has set up a slack channel for our correspondence. I think it would be helpful to have your requirements and project management team added to the slack with your own channel, as well. This way we can all communicate in the general channel for questions, etc. If not, we will have to set up some other communication so that we can really get the ball rolling and ensure that the dev team has what it needs and is helping you reach your goals. I have invited you to our Slack using your Gannon email. Please go ahead and add your teammates to the team as well, if this is the route you all choose.

We definitely have some questions about the project, so a meeting would be helpful.

Jimmy
